The word ‘ Chamba Rumal ‘ implies a peculiar visual art form that represents unique and charming embroidery done on a hand spun cloth with untwisted silken thread, which is greatly inspired from pahari painting. The fabric used as carrier in Chamba Rumal was hand spun & hand woven cotton (khaddar) or fine muslin (mal-mal) of offwhite colour. Off-white base of the fabric highlights the vibrant silken threads employed for filling up the drawing. The Chamba Rumal gets its name from Chamba, a hill-station in Himachal Pradesh, where it has been practised for centuries. The earliest records of the region dates back to 2nd century BC, making it one of the most ancient destinations in the state. The region is known for its history, architecture and landscapes but the local community is also known for its arts and crafts, in particular the miniature Pahari paintings. The impeccable needlework on the Chamba Rumals is derived from the art movement, combining miniature art with embroidery.

In the 17th century, the Chamba Rumal embroidery was done by the queens and royal ladies of Chamba for wedding dowries, important gifts and ceremonial coverings
